WIGGINS—JAMMES Mrs. Irene Baster, of Statesboro, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ruth Wiggins, of Brooklet, to M. J. Jammes, of Sanford, Fla. The wedding will take place in the near future.

ELARBEE—DILLARD Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Elarbee, of Decatur, formerly of Brooklet, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, to George Pershing Dillard, of Decatur and Boston, Mass. The wedding will take place March 8 in the Paffilo Memorial Methodist church in Decatur.

The bride-elect's mother is the former Miss Sophronia Ruttin, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rustin, of this place. Miss Elarbee was an honor graduate of the Brooklet High School. She later attended Georgia State College for Women, where she specialized in home economics. She was an officer in the Y.W.C.A. and the student council. Miss Elarbee is a talented musician, having been a member and diarist of the A' Capella choir. She is now employed in the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. in Atlanta. Mr. Dillard is the son of Mr. W. T. Dillard and the late Mr. Dillard, of Decatur. His mother is the former Miss Della Hall, daughter of Lydia Bender and B. Hall, of Laurens county. Mr. Dillard received his LL. B. degree from Woodrow Wilson College, Law in Atlanta. He was prominent in student activities, having been president of the student council, member of the college debating team and Sigma Delta Kappa legal fraternity. Mr. Dillard was for several years connected with Kearsley-Matison Company in Atlanta. He is now employed by the United States Department of Justice in Boston, Mass., where the couple will reside after their marriage.

BROOKLET GROUND HOG FOOLED BIG RATTLER The ground hog came out in this section of Bulloch on February 2, and when he did not see his shadow, instead of a diamond back rattler, he saw a diamond back rattler that had hibernated on the farm of H. L. Girardeau, came out of his underground home. Mr. Girardeau and his son, Jesse, were cleaning up a new ground at the back of their home last Saturday. Jesse was picking up limbs of a fallen tree when his hand hit a diamond back rattler four feet long. The reptiles' eight rattles began singing, giving young Girardeau warning to "get further." Mr. Rattler evidently had put confidence in the ground hog and thought he would come out for the summer, but he didn't live to tell the tale.

Bullock's Representative Hits "Straight From the Shoulder" (Following is a speech made by Representative D. L. Deal on the floor of the house in opposition to the bill to give the governor power to suspend officials elected by the people of Georgia.)

The constitution of our nation and of our state provides for a democracy in America, and if I understand the word democracy it is rooted in the freedom and independence of the individual to have a voice in the government of his country. Democracy came into life when the individual gained the right to speak, and to be heard and to be recognized. The right of the individual to express his opinion and to cast his vote and so participate in the direct government of our country has been gained through centuries of fighting for that right. As an ordinary citizen of the rank and file of Georgians, a hold the right to cast my vote as a precious heritage. I am here as the representative of one of Georgia's finest counties. People in my county of Bulloch hold the privilege of the ballot as a priceless privilege. Is their representative I feel that my business here is to express and re-express their wishes if those wishes are known to me. The comptroller general and the treasurer of the state were elected by the vote of the people in the same election in which the vote of the people elected the governor of the state to his high place of trust. I feel that these men have a right to serve in these offices to which the vote of the people has called them. My individual feelings in this matter might be of small consequence. I am here to keep the faith with the will of the people of the state of Georgia and to help keep alive those principles of democracy that enable the humblest Georgian to say, "This is free America." I do not believe that a matter upon which the people have already cast their ballot comes justly within my power to change, and it certainly does not come within my desire to change it. The people did not cast their ballot for me with the expectation of my doing anything that would reduce their voices to silence by wiping out their ballot and delegating an office that they have given one Georgian, to another who was likewise elected by the people.

In article 1 bill of rights, section 1, constitution of Georgia. (I quote): "All government, of right, originates with the people, is founded upon their will only, and is instituted solely for the good of the whole people. The powers of government are the trustees and servants of the people, and at all times amenable to them."

The people of Georgia by their vote have selected their governor and other state officers; they have sent their representatives to the legislature to cooperate with each other and with them in strengthening the democratic principles of government to the extent that they, the people, shall have a government of sound, substantial decency; not one of strife or of ambition on the part of any one person or any one group of persons.

The right of the people to a free voice in the government of their state and nation strongly engages the hopes and the fears of the people, and they are inclined to suspicion and doubt when any measure proposes to take from them that right. I must consider it beyond my right to vote to nullify an office that the voice of the people of Georgia have sustained.

Those of us who are entrusted with any part of the administration of Georgia laws are duty bound, as I see it, to perform that duty with every consideration for the confidence and faith of the people. When a law is passed that nullifies the voice of the people they are inclined to jump immediately to the conclusion that a dictatorship is the next step. Whether the danger is real or imaginary, that feeling of freedom that is the heritage of Georgians, to have a voice in the laws that govern the state and nation, is a feeling that a true Georgian wants to be eternal with Georgians, rich or poor, great or small.

We can't forget that Americans are a peculiar people. We can't forget that Thomas Jefferson proved that the sovereign voice of all the people is the real voice of America, and gentlemen, we as Americans and as Georgians must not forget that our law of Georgia as well as of the U. S. A. must remain of and by the people if that flag over this building that proclaims "Wisdom, Justice and Moderation," and that other flag that carries the immortal stars and stripes is to remain supreme.

Let's let the will of the people remain supreme.

Let's let the will of the people remain supreme.

"Will You Be My Valentine?"

By SARAH POINDEXTER This question, dressed up in paper lace, decorated with love-birds, or carefully tucked in heart-shaped boxes of candy, will ring in thousands of shell-pink ears Friday, and will send palpitations through many fair maiden's hearts.

Grammar school teachers will play the role of Cupid and deliver the contents of the traditional Valentine boxes. Such bashful swains are too young to realize the advantages connected with personal delivery of these tender messages of love and devotion.

Their older and bolder brothers will present their tokens of everlasting affection in person, in order to be on hand when the candy hearts are opened. There are several explanations given for the familiar custom of sending presents, cards of greeting, and the like to The Girl on this particular day. Some say that Saint Valentine was accustomed to go around from door to door, leaving food on each porch of the poor. Hence, the practice of sending what might be a substitute for food and drink in some cases arose. A more satisfactory explanation is that the custom once prevalent for young men on this day to draw lots to decide which young lady should be their "valentine" during the ensuing year. The couples thus paired exchanged gifts and were regarded as betrothed. Father Time has seen fit to withdraw this implication, so is it considered safe to send that box of candy without fearing that it will be the impetus of a breach of promise suit.

Saint Valentine is also the name given to the Christian martyr whose death occurred on February 14th. However, this and even his real connection with the day being observed as a lover's festival. Perhaps its truest significance lies in the fact that this day heralds the coming of spring, and because "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love"—February 14 is the day on which his thoughts start turning.

Temple Hill W. M. S. The Woman's Missionary Society of Temple Hill will meet at the church next Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

Every member is urged to be present and help with some special business. Some time this spring the society will sponsor a program and present a play for the purpose of raising funds for church repairs. At the Friday meeting we will try to place characters, and wish every member present. Visitors welcome.

Everyone please bring plants to set out in the cemetery lot.

REPORTER. LANGSTON WOMEN The woman's division of Christian Service of the Langston church held its January meeting and Thursday, January 23rd, at the home of Mrs. J. H. Rouch. The morning was spent in sewing, and after lunch Mrs. Rouch had charge of the program. Devotional, using as the theme "Investing Our Heritage in Public Health."

COLUMNETTE

By C. D. SHELLEY

The great advantage of democracy is that every little man can feel like a dictator if he controls at least one pen.

We will never have dictatorship. So many are well trained for the position that it would be impossible to choose.

Labor at first had only capital to fight. Now it has an added nuisance in the labor unions.

New ideal of spoils system: If you pay your union membership dues, you have to be a k.

They couldn't realize that making long-winded speeches for peace in certain regions would not make the whole world pacific.

Our present war as evidenced in columnar speeches, etc., will bring on an age of fatalism. After all, war after war would make any civilized man say, "What's the use."

Miss Jeanette DeLoach, who teaches at Wrens, visited relatives here last week end.

Rev. William Kitchens Jr. will preach at the Baptist church Sunday and Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Gard and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stewart motored to Savannah Wednesday.

Virginia Miller visited the family of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Guplin in Savannah during the week.

Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson and son, Eugene, visited Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rackley, at Oliver, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmas Rushing, of Nevada, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Turner Tuesday.

Mrs. John Saunders and Miss Margaret DeLoach were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Walsh in Summit Sunday.

Mrs. Ed Smith, Mrs. Paul Edmonfield, Mrs. Noyce Edmonfield and Mrs. Harville Marsh visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jenkins in Blundell, Tuesday.

Mrs. Charles Turner received cut. Mrs. Starr served a salad plate with coffee. Miss Ann Fulcher, a bride-elect, was presented a piece of china by the club.

The Methodist Society of Christian Service met at the home of Mrs. Ida Hendrix Monday. After the program a business session, with the president, Mrs. Ernest Womack, presiding, was held. Mrs. Hendrix, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Rupert Moore, served pound cake topped with whipped cream and coffee.

Wednesday the Baptist W. M. S. honored Mrs. John Saunders with a surprise covered dish party at her home. After the lovely lunch the group sewed on a quilt for the orphan's home. Present were Mesdames Oscar Johnson, Alex Woods, E. E. Stewart, A. J. Bowen, J. E. Webb, G. W. Turner, G. T. Gard, A. DeLoach and Miss Debbie Trappnell.

THE history of the Register P.T. A. was uniquely and interestingly given as the past-presidents, Mesdames H. V. Franklin, Frankie Watson, Arthur Riggs, Frank Simmons and Otis Holloway, assembled around the birthday cake, related the outstanding achievements of each administration. The love gift was taken by Miss Hodges. Miss Edna Warren paid tribute to local, state and national leaders with a beautiful reading, "Service." The program was concluded with P.T. A. pop songs directed by Miss Grace Bowles.

March 11, 7:30 p. m., was set for the next regular P.T. A. meeting when dues will be honor guests. A basketball game will be sponsored by the P.T. A. February 17th.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY WOMEN

The American Association of University Women held their February meeting on Tuesday night at the home of Miss Brooks Grimes. The program was presented by the following: Miss Grimes, presiding; a quiz and a play, "Our Futures." In this manner the members learned of the work of this committee and of the fellowship awards which are now being given to members in research that they may continue research.

After the program, refreshments were served by Miss Grimes and her co-hostesses, Mrs. L. W. Downs and Miss Marion Groover.

Why Printers Don't Kiss

IN RECENT MONTHS the Linotype machine in the Times office has at frequent intervals had eccentric spells, when the operator suddenly found himself almost jumping out of his pants and wondering what had struck him. Particularly were these spasms noticeable during wet weather, and it was found to be almost worth a man's life to touch the machine in certain places with his bare hands. A more or less skilled mechanic some ever, evaded the suspicion that some of the electric wires connecting with the machine—there are two such connections—had exposed terminals, and that some juice was leaking, which leakage was aggravated by the moisture which accompanied the damp weather.

Personally this editor, who himself sometimes operates the machine, had felt the sudden surprise of the conductor, and had learned to stay away from the machine except when the sun was shining. He wondered if there was a cure, or if it must be endured to the end of time.

It now develops, however, that the editor—old man as he is—had not even felt the great surprise which comes from this faulty connection; and it also develops that the most surprising period comes to the operator when he attempts to kiss a woman at the same time he sits at the key board. (Personally, we are sure we never thought of that.)

All those rumormongers are induced by a true-to-life story written by Laik Payne, editor of the Piggett (Ark.) Banner in his issue of January 9th. It has to do with the fact that the Linotype machine, not to apply the same term to the kissing feature he has confessed).

But read the story, and you will understand why printers are mighty scrupulous as to when and how and who they kiss:

"Hot papa" is right! That's what the Misses think of her young husband. The Banner's Linotype operator has a short circuit, and when the weather is rainy you don't dare touch the machine unless you stand on paper or have rubber soled shoes on; otherwise you get a jolt similar to sticking your finger in a light socket. One rainy night recently Mr. Payne was operating the machine and his wife came by. When she left, she started to kiss him good-bye (which he says is a rare event); but anyway, their noses touched first, and then sparks flew. It developed her shoes were not rubber soled, and Mr. Payne was shocked. He said, "No damage done other than two extremely red noses."

Ignorance and Wisdom

THE DIVIDING line between ignorance and wisdom is often so fine that it is doubt as to the dividing point.

Papers in recent years are carrying more and more suggestions that educated circles have grown skeptical about the correctness of the Einstein theory, which is said to be only faintly understood by a very few persons; and now the suggestion is made that Mr. Einstein is probably more insane than scholarly. The things he talks about are so mysterious, it is said, that even the most learned men are unable to decide whether he leads the procession in the sciences or is headed for the bug-house.

If you give ignorance its full opportunity and check up on its course, you will often be surprised to note how it finds the correct attitude without ever realizing that it has done so. This reference to wisdom is not intended to deal with that quality dramatically classified as horse sense, but merely to the acquired polish of book learning which is sometimes misapplied as wisdom. Education and wisdom are sometimes found in the same habitation, but they are not always the same quality. Similarly, lack of education occasionally gives opportunity for a stroke of wisdom which flashes across the horizon and leaves one amazed.

The use of big words, for instance, denotes education; but the use of big words does not necessarily indicate wisdom. Likewise, sometimes the misspelling of a word brings one nearer to a display of wisdom than a correct spelling would indicate. A lawyer friend told us a day or two ago about some correspondence he was having with a colored client who had gone from Bulloch county to some place in the north. The client is the son of a more or less prominent negro of the old type who recently died after having accumulated an estate which was considered of more than ordinary importance among the people of his circle and color. The estate was undergoing some sort of adjustment, and the negro boy in the north was interested in ascertaining his status with regard to it. It was this matter about which he wrote the attorney. He wanted to know the exact portion due to each heir, and he asked the lawyer to let him know by return mail, "how much of my father's estate there is for each of his 'errors'." The youngster meant to ask about his father's children, and he didn't follow Webster in spelling "heirs," but he probably hit it more nearly correct when he spelled in "errors." Which is not to say, however, that all heirs are errors.

And this brings us back to the point at the outset, if you let ignorance have her way, she'll stumble on some evidences of wisdom in places least expected.

Who was Harmed by the Fraud? SOMEBODY who posed as a philosopher has declared that what a person doesn't know, doesn't hurt him. And somebody else has coined the phrase that "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise." The two suggestions are so closely akin that it is difficult to separate their truth and fiction.

Certainly it is, however, that an arrow shot in the air does not harm unless it is his. The criminal who accepted the check carried to the gas dealer and paid it over for gas; the gas man passed it along the the dairyman for milk; the dairyman gave it to the editor for a subscription to the paper; the editor hired the carpenter to repair his back steps, and gave him the check in payment for the debt.

There is being circulated a story, possibly true—more probably false—about a carpenter with no bank account who drew a check in payment for a valid debt. The grocer who accepted the check carried it to the gas dealer and paid it over for gas; the gas man passed it along the the dairyman for milk; the dairyman gave it to the editor for a subscription to the paper; the editor hired the carpenter to repair his back steps, and gave him the check in payment for the debt.

Nobody ever knew that the check would have been turned down if presented for payment at the bank—nobody knew that fraud was involved—and nobody was hurt. Who committed the crime; or was it a crime?

Single Litter Pigs

Bring Bunch $191.18

A litter of pigs sold by J. A. Bunch last week weighed 2,800 pounds. These thirteen pigs were 8 1/2 months old and returned Mr. Bunch $191.18. Keeping sows that bring large litters is a specialty of Mr. Bunch's. It will be recalled that last year he sold two litters that weighed more than a ton each when about 6 months old.

Hogs are more profitable, according to Mr. Bunch, when farrowed in large litters and then fed a balanced ration along with some mineral so that they can be sold in six to eight months. Green grass is provided for the hogs on this farm every month in the year.

First Snowfall Is Barely Perceptible

The first snowfall of the winter visited this community around ten o'clock Sunday morning, and attracted the usual amount of interest—those who were aware of it. With the sun obscured by dark clouds, slight mist began falling and gradually followed by a sort of cross between snow and sleet. Never at any time was there accumulation enough to assemble in quantity, and within a few minutes the sun came out and the snowfall was merely a vague memory. Anyway, it was enough to establish the fact that Bulloch county is still in the arms of a gentle winter.

A private airplane in Chicago was damaged by a fire hydrant when it made a forced landing. Served it right for coming down in a no-parking zone.

The body of Leon Rosier, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Rosier, was found in the water near the bridge, which was in East Side cemetery Tuesday afternoon following services at the Rosier home on North Main.

Young Mr. Rosier, who operated an automobile in Jacksonville, was killed on the highway near that city Sunday morning when he was struck by a drunken driver car as he stood with a crowd inspecting a serious collision which had occurred. Mr. Rosier had made his home in Statesboro for the past fifteen year or longer.

700 HEAD CATTLE FOR STOCK SHOW

Date Set For April 3, And Show To Be Held At Parkers' Stock Yard

About 700 head of cattle are now being fed in Bulloch county, most of which are being finished for the stock show and sale April 3, according to the check up made by the livestock committee at its meeting last week.

A few minor changes were made in the regulations for the show. J. E. Hodges, general chairman of the committee, stated that cattle weighing less than 850 pounds would be shown in the light class and over 850 pounds would be in the heavy class.

In 1940 the dividing weight was 900 pounds. Prize money for home-grown steers, which are steers dropped and fed on the farm from which they are shown, will be doubled for this show in that a light and heavy class will be arranged. A major change would permit pens of three steers to be shown whether halber bred or not. The plan of this rule change is to permit more farmers to enter cattle in the show as well as in the sale.

LEEFIELD 4-H CLUB

The Leefield 4-H Club met Monday, February 11. The meeting was called to order by the president, Gladys Mae Lane. Marketing was discussed. Some of the things a 4-H club member might sell are poultry and eggs, vegetables, canned products and hand-made articles. Our first step in developing a good market is to have good quality clean products.

STILSON 4-H CLUB

In our 4-H club meeting for February we planned for our projects: canning, sewing, etc. The members have been turned down if presented for payment at the bank—nobody knew that fraud was involved—and nobody was hurt. Who committed the crime; or was it a crime?

Some of the things we are going to make for the market are jellies, vegetables, butter, cheese, cakes, pies and different fruits.

NEW CASTLE CLUB

The New Castle club women met February 10, at the home of Mrs. Delma Rushing, for the purpose of making baby garments for the British relief. Several dresses were completed as far as we were given directions as how they would be completed by ladies at the office. The others were given out to be finished at an early date.

Those present were Mrs. Jim Strickland, Mrs. George Strickland, Mrs. J. Rushing, Mrs. Delma Rushing, Mrs. Hudson Godbee, Mrs. Virgil Anderson, Mrs. Gordon Anderson and Mrs. Hubert Waters. Others sewing for the British relief are Mrs. Austin Anderson, Mrs. Reddie Anderson, and Mrs. Grady Rushing. Friends calling to help were Mrs. A. C. Anderson and Mrs. John M. Strickland.

All members are urged to attend the next meeting, as it will be picture-taking afternoon. We would like to have a picture of the entire club together. Also a few other pictures are needed.

HARVILLE W. M. S.

Harville W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. C. C. DeLoach Feb. 10. After a devotional and business meeting the program from the Royal Service was rendered. The personal service committee reported work done and plans were made for work this month. Six were present. The hostess served delightful refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Houston Lanier.

E. A. Smith Grain Company Smith Fertilizer Company AND Farmers Union Warehouse WILL CONTINUE TO OPERATE UNDER THESE SAME NAMES

To Our Friends and Patrons:

It is a great satisfaction to me to make the above announcement, that arrangements have been completed for our business to go ahead without interruption and along the same lines and policies we have been following.

The same men will be here to serve you—Mr. Floyd Brannen in charge of the office, Mr. Elmer Price the store, and Mr. Bill H. Simmons Jr. the cotton warehouse and fertilizer plant.

We have been a part of Statesboro and Bulloch County, and have enjoyed the friendship and good will of the people of this section of Georgia for over thirty years. The business you have given us has made it possible for us to exist through good times and bad, and has been deeply appreciated by me and my father, the late E. A. Smith. It is my hope that these same pleasant relations will continue; as sole owner of the business I pledge my best efforts to deserve your trade and confidence.

Sincerely,
HORACE SMITH.

Many people have asked us if we would be in the Fertilizer Market this season. OUR PLANT IN RUNNING NOW—we have ample materials bought—prices and quality will be in line with any competition and WE WANT YOUR ORDERS. See us also for good Planting Cotton Seed.

largest retail department stores in South Georgia. He continued in business for more than a quarter of a century and in later years became connected with a major oil company as district representative.

"During his entire lifetime, he has been a great lover of sports. Besides his reputation as one of the finest masters of the links, he was recognized as an expert fisherman and hunter, and was perhaps one of the very best rod and reel fishermen in the entire state."

"For years he had served on the high school athletic association, and he was instrumental in securing services of Bobby Hooks here as coach in 1932. His activities in sports were far reaching, and no golf tournament in Georgia or the South was considered complete without the appearance of "Papa Jack" or "The Duke" as he was sometimes known to close friends.

"A perennial leader in sports affairs, the famous golfing family here was a constant booster of the Valdosta High School football teams and of the local baseball representative. His support of sporting events here is credited with having developed athletes from many standpoints, and his passing will be keenly felt by those within his own life as well as all those who were touched by the wide scope of his activities."

"A member of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church, he had been active in affairs of that church since he came to Valdosta. More than half a decade ago when a movement was on foot to abolish Emory Junior College here, he led a fight which resulted not only in maintenance of the school, but in improvement until it now ranks among the finest junior colleges in the South."

"One of the major achievements of the Oliver family was winning of more golf trophies and cups than any other amateur golfing family in the entire United States. A trophy room at the family residence displays scores of cups and awards won in competition in Georgia and other southeastern states."

JOHN C. NEWTON

John C. Newton, age 72, died Saturday in Macon, where he had been visiting with a son for several weeks. His death was due to injuries received when he fell upon the streets and broke his hip several weeks ago. The body was brought to Bulloch county for interment, which was in the Macedonia Baptist church cemetery Monday afternoon.

Mr. Newton was a former resident of this county, his home being near Macedonia church. He was married and is survived by a number of children; also one brother and several sisters.

TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Among the lovely parties of the Valentine season was that Tuesday morning when Mrs. Frank Williams hosted to the members of the Tuesday bridge club and other guests. An arrangement of narcissi and camellias formed effective decorations for their home on Savannah avenue. A novelty vase for visitors' high was won by Mrs. Cecil Brannen and for club high an attractive candy jar went to Mrs. Harry Smith. For cut Mrs. Grover Brannen received a Fostoria dish. A lovely luncheon plate in which the Valentine idea was used was served. Other guests included Miss Annie Smith and Mesdames Frank Grimes, Roger Holland, W. S. Hanner, Dean Anderson, Dan Lowery, Arthur Turner, J. M. Thayer, George Bean, W. H. Blitch, Horace Smith, Gordon Mays and Imman Foy.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY DINNER
Mrs. R. J. Kennedy entertained Tuesday evening with a lovely turkey dinner at her home on North Main street as a surprise to Dr. Kennedy, who was observing his birthday. A lovely floral arrangement in red and white was used as a centerpiece to the festive affair. The table and wall were lined with place cards marked the place of the guests, who included employees of the Bulloch County Bank, of which Dr. Kennedy is president. Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. W. L. deLanette, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lanier, Mr. and Mrs.

Newsy Notes From Nevils

Quite a number of our folks were shopping in Statesboro Saturday.

Miss Margaret Loving spent the week-end at her home in Augusta.

Messrs. Dreyfus Martin and McDonald Mikell were visitors in Savannah Sunday.

Mrs. Jackie Denmark will make her home with Mrs. L. O. Rushing, at Register, for the present time.

Miss Mildred Nell Anderson, of Claxton, was the guest Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Nesmith.

Since the dead season is in the people are really enjoying them. Some think they are the very finest of the day's visit near here with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Zettler are making their home in Atlanta for the present. Mrs. Zettler was Miss Lena Mae Denmark before her recent marriage.

Little Miss Sandra Sue Nesmith continues sick at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Teell Nesmith. She is suffering from milk-allergy and influenza.

Winford DeLoach had the misfortune Saturday night to get his leg broken in three places when he was knocked down and run over by a pulpwood truck.

Mrs. E. W. DeLoach Jr. spent the week end in Charlotte, N. C., and was accompanied home by Mr. DeLoach, who has been transferred to Savannah to work at the air base there.

Mrs. Emory Fannin and little son, Thomas, have returned from an extended visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Brock, in Birmingham, Ala. While away they both had very severe cases of the flu, but are now about well.

Mrs. Shuman, of Savannah, is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Raymond Holgers, and is helping to nurse her father, Mr. Butler, who continues quite sick as Mrs. Hodges' home. Their mother is there also, and is still in very poor health.

About three or four of Roscoe Roberts' immediate family and very close relatives had a joint birthday dinner Sunday at his home near here. Since there were so many with the same birthday it was decided for all to come together and have the dinner at one place.

A number of folks from out of Bulloch county as well as quite a number who live in the county gathered at the home of E. A. Denmark Sunday to enjoy the day and join in the celebration of his seventy-third birthday. We hope he lives to have many, many more.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY
Sunday, February 10th, Mrs. Besie Byrd, of Savannah, formerly of the Nevils community, came to visit her daughter, Mrs. Ollie Atkins, and Mr. Atkins for the day. Greatly to her surprise when she arrived, she found about fifty persons, already assembled to help celebrate her birthday. Tables were arranged outdoors, and a lovely birthday cake decorated the table.

Equipment for playground has been made by the vocational boys, taught by John Lawton. Swings, see-saws and merry-go-rounds afford the little people great pleasure.

The co-operative school garden is now showing fine results in the way of excellent produce and some dividends. The language arts group, after sampling the radishes, wrote some very striking descriptions on the taste of radishes and value of vegetables in the diet. The swine project is a source of interest to the community as well as to the agricultural classes. The purchased Duroc Jersey pair of pigs are thriving through the care as given by John Lawton and his vocational boys.

Recent visitors to the school the past month are as follows: L. A. Lester, associate director of negro education for the state of Georgia; Vivian Smith, counseling teacher of home economics, and P. M. Slaley, itinerant teacher trainer, Georgia State College.

The teachers and friends of the principal, Beatrice L. Dominis, have expressed their deep sympathy for her in the recent loss of her father. BEATRICE L. DOMINIS, Reporter.

COLORED SCHOOLS WILLOW HILL

All departments of the school have taken on new impetus since the completion of the vocational building. The home economics department, directed by Mattie Davis, is doing effective community work with adult home clubs. They meet once a week to study and to serve balanced meals.

The vocational department, directed by John W. Lawton, was successful in getting the Willow Hill School approved as one of the defense educational centers. Boys from the ages of 17-24 years are eligible to learn a trade at the expense of the government. Registrations are now being received.

Group A in an excellent assembly program January 24 presented as their theme, "An Hour With Race Artists." This was in accordance with the persistent problem, "Aesthetic and Spiritual Impulses." Under the direction of their sponsor, Beatrice L. Dominis, the pupils represented famous artists of the race in song and readings, with the setting in a broadcasting station as given over the radio. Noted groups as "Wings Over Jordan," "Deep River Boys" and "Moon River Moods," were dramatized. Colles Hall as leader of "Deep River Boys," showed talent as a singer. Harvey Davis, as Roland Hayes, stirred the audience in his rendering of "Water Boy," supported by the boys' group. Delaware Hall, fittingly called the "Song Bird of Willow Hill," made a true picture of Marion Anderson, the greatest contralto, in her vocal solo, "Who Knows." In the sketch, "Moon River Moods," humorous reading from Dunbar and other negro poets added much to the program. Elizabeth Rountree, in her rendition of "Doctor, I'm Sick," called forth much applause and laughter from the parents and friends present.

This program was also a part of the P-T-A. meeting at which it was gratifying to see present many men and trustees of the school. Maonelle Dixon, jeans supervisor, was a guest, and expressed praise and encouragement to the group for their inspiring program. Among others who expressed themselves as pleased with the progress and results the principal and staff were obtaining at Willow Hill, were Man Hall, chairman of the local trustees board of the school; Mrs. Agnes Cons, one of the officials of the P-T-A, and Emma Parrish, who recently returned from an extensive trip to Cincinnati, O.

A singing contest will be given at the school February 20. Three groups will compete, consisting of a boys' group, a girls' group and an adult group composed of P-T-A. women and friends. Prizes have already begun among the groups. A collation will be served and prizes awarded. The object of the entertainment is to complete funds to buy wire fencing for the school grounds.

Plans Are Shaping For Press Institute

Atlanta, Feb. 3. — It looks as if it is going to be the biggest and best yet—meaning the fourteenth annual session of the Georgia Press Institute, to be held February 19-22 at the University of Georgia's Henry W. Grady School of Journalism in Athens.

With ten of the states leading newspapers contributing speakers or entertainment, plans are taking definite shape, according to Albert S. Hardy, Gainesville News publisher, chairman of the institute. They will appear as the guests of the Athens Banner-Herald, Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta Journal, Augusta Chronicle, Columbus Ledger and Inquirer and the Macon Telegraph and News. Round tables on problems of business and professional interest to the editors and publishers of the state will be led and participated in by experts in the various subjects considered.

Serving with Mr. Hardy on the committee are Milton Fleetwood, of Cartersville; J. P. Chapman, editor of Valdosta's Lowndes County News, and John E. Drewry, dean of the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism. The Press Institute was organized by Miss Emily Woodward, director of the Georgia Public Forums, when she was president of the Georgia Press Association.

TRAINERS AMUSE HALL DRAFT BOARD
Gainesville, Feb. 10.—The Hall county draft board is working overtime trying to find the explanation to a recent application. The potential draftee attaches the following note to his questionnaire:

"I received this questionnaire at 8:30 on January 21 and I answered it 9:20 on January 21." In the questionnaire, the singer states that he has three children.

The board has just recovered from their amusement at another young man who applied recently. "Well, I'm ready," he burst out. "I'm 21 today."

A third gentleman came in the other day to notify the board of a change in address. Asked for his new street number, he replied, "Oh, it's the same number. I'm just moving to the back of the house."

.. Stilson Siftings ..

Shell Brannen, of Blakely, visited his family here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Newman were visitors in Savannah Tuesday.

Miss Sara Kate Scarborough was a week-end visitor in Savannah.

The Lane's Bible class will meet with Mrs. Sidney Sanders Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Newman announce the birth of a daughter Feb. 8. Mrs. Newman will be remembered as Miss Ione Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Simmons, Misses Sybil and Jacqueline Simmons and Carl Simmons, of Savannah were visitors here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bennett announce the birth of a son on Feb. 8. Mrs. Bennett will be remembered as Miss Ada Richardson.

Mrs. Zada Brannen and Miss Zada Mae Brannen and Miss Vida McElven were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron McElven Sunday.

The many friends here of Henry Cribbs will be glad to know that he is improving nicely after having his leg amputated at the Bulloch County Hospital.

Mrs. J. E. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Woodward, Miss Edith Woodward, Mrs. J. G. Sowell and little Miss Sara Frances Driggers visited Miss Annie Harvey at the Oglethorpe Sanitarium Sunday.

The Stilson basketball teams will play Portal here Friday night in a double-header. This promises to be a very good game. Stilson won over Springfield Monday night with a double-header. The boys' score, Stilson 52, Springfield 18; girls, Stilson 27, Springfield 13. So far each team has suffered only one defeat.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lee entertained with a dinner Sunday. Covers were laid for Eller S. M. Claxton, of the Southeastern States. Dated January 23, 1941, the letter indicates the importance of prompt completion of the Southeastern Pipe Line.

ROOK—SOWELL.

A marriage of much interest here, which took place at Albany Wednesday, Feb. 5, was that of Miss Elizabeth Rook, of Leary, and J. Glynn Sowell, of Stilson, which was solemnized quietly by Rev. M. E. White, pastor of the First Baptist church, in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Sowell, parents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Rook, brother of the bride; Mrs. A. D. Sowell, Macon, aunt of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Stanfield.

The bride was lovely in an ensemble of wool beige with brown accessories, and a corsage of pink roses. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren E. Rook, of Leary, and was graduated from Teachers College. For the past two years she has taught school in Baker county.

Mr. Sowell is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Sowell; was an honor graduate of Stilson High School and was an outstanding athlete. He received his B.S. degree from Teachers College, and attended Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio. For the past three years he has been a member of the Albany High School faculty.

After the wedding trip through Florida they will reside at Albany.

LEEFIELD CLUB

The Leefield Club met at the school house on February 8th. The meeting was called to order and several phases of business were discussed, mainly appointing new officers for the year.

Miss Spears outlined our year's work and gave interesting tips on marketing and how to prepare our produce for market.

The club was asked to help with the British relief. The garments we are to make are operating gowns and the material is furnished by the Red Cross. The members of the club are to meet at the home of Mrs. Dan Hagin on Tuesday, February 11, to make these garments. Each one is to carry a dish, and they will enjoy the day in sewing and chatting. We had an unusually large crowd present and hope for better attendance at the next meeting, which will be on every first Thursday.

Mrs. A. J. Knight, Mrs. Umer Knight and Mrs. H. H. Olliff served gingerbread topped with whipped cream and cherries, and coffee.

HOME BY NINE EVERY NIGHT FOR FIFTY YEARS

Gainesville, Feb. 10.—C. R. Robinson can give a bit of sage advice to husbands who want to come to their golden-wedding anniversary unscarred. The advice: Always be at home by nine o'clock at night. Only once has Mr. Robinson come in later than nine—and then because he had to load a car of watermelons. To this virtue the Robinsons give credit to their fifty years of happy married life.

The President of the United States Seeks Georgia's Cooperation Why has the President called for the immediate completion of the Southeastern Pipe Line in the interest of national defense?

The people of our state will understand fully just why the President demanded this step in the present national emergency.

Various agencies of the United States government have investigated closely the transportation requirements in the Southeastern States. The desirability of the construction of this pipe line was emphasized in their reports to President Roosevelt. In its report to the President on September 14, 1940, the National Defense Commission outlined the reasons why the construction of the pipe line is absolutely vital to national defense. Some of these reasons are:

1. The Release of Convoy Ships. The Commission said: "At present both the Army and Navy are interested in having private capital construct pipe lines to transport gasoline to the East Coast States without the necessity of long haul around Florida and up the Atlantic coast, which in time of emergency might be difficult and in any event would require a large convoy service."
2. Release of Tankers for Navy Use. The Commission said: "Moreover, in time of emergency it would be possible to take a part of the burden of the gasoline deliveries to the east coast through these gasoline pipe lines and in turn release tankers for the purpose of handling the essential products such as Navy fuel oil which cannot be handled in crude oil or gasoline pipe lines."
3. To Accumulate Reserve Stocks of Aviation Gasoline. The Commission said: "These gasoline pipe lines would also afford exceptionally desirable locations for some of the reserve stocks of aviation gasoline for both the Army and Navy since deliveries can be made at low cost and removal can be effected readily even in time of emergency."
4. Increase needs of Army for Gasoline. The Commission said: "The Army plans to locate most of its interior reserve storage at points on gasoline pipe lines. Such location of large buried storage facilities would not only be virtually invulnerable but would make it possible to deliver the gasoline to the Army through any of the industry, farm points or bulk plants located along the gasoline line or lines to which the Army storage would be connected."
5. Additional Pipe Lines Necessary. The Commission said: "It is clear that substantial additions to the gasoline pipe line and terminal storage capacity of the industry will be necessary under this program."

"I have been informed by the government agencies concerned that the completion of one gasoline pipe line and the commencement of another to the Southeastern States have been delayed by opposition from other carriers in interstate commerce. Although this situation ultimately might correct itself, delay in its solution will retard the completion of essential transportation facilities. If the matter is not settled before your committee resumes its investigations under House Resolution 290, as extended, I hope that it will be included in your hearings and that a solution thereto will be presented to the Congress."
